COURSE DESCRIPTION

Positioning and Draping for sidelying positioning and pregnancy can be a challenge for many, and sometimes becomes so frustrating that therapists give up all together and stop working with pregnant clients. The height of the table, choosing the best type of cushions, the size sheets you have all make a difference between ease and annoyance.

This course looks at the pros and cons of sidelying, semi-reclining, supine, prone, and left-tilted positions. We explore positioning and draping based especially on the stage of a woman's pregnancy or her belly size, along with other considerations. We will then look at easiest draping options for sidelying position and discuss table set up so that draping and positioning are easier. Video content as well as text describe and demonstrate draping for the legs, back, and belly using larger sheets, breast drape, extra weighted towel or sheet, and other tips to make your drape more secure. .
